

Kim Sheilds Bio

For me life has become, not about the destination, but rather learning to enjoy the journey. That journey has not always taken a direct route. There have been a few stops and detours along the way. I suppose that also describes my journey of discovering my place in fine art.

I have had no formal education in art. I graduated from a small Baptist college with a bachelor's degree in Business Administration, with art as only an occasional enjoyment

15 years ago, because of some outside influences, I found myself taking a different path. I picked up the artist's paint brushes and had no regrets ever since.

There was a time when fifteen years was an eternity. Now fifteen years as an artist makes me realize, fifteen years is only a beginning. I believe like most artists; my best work is still before me. And I am going to enjoy the journey getting there.
