

SUPPLIES TO BRING

The Creative Playground: Mixed Media Art Journaling

This list is a recommendation, but I encourage you to use what you have and tailor the process to your own style and color choices.

Surfaces:

Dylusions Art Journal or Strathmore Mixed Media Journal (or something similar that will hold up to painting and collage explorations).

Paint:

Assorted acrylic paint in a palette of your choice, but definitely bring white & black. I suggest fluid or soft-body acrylics. Some craft paint will be fine too

Drawing Tools:

Assorted drawing tools such as NeoColor II crayons, Inktense pencils, grease pencil, Stabilo All, Stabilo Woodys. Drawing Pens for Doodling (Micron, Faber-Castell Pitt Pens), Acrylic Paint Markers (definitely white and black). Most of these are suggestions, if you have other favorites, just bring what you have.

Brushes:

Assorted plus a scraping tool such as a Catalyst Wedge #6

Palette and other Painting Basics:

I prefer using a Sta-Wet Palette (bought or make your own) plus extra palette paper/freezer paper for mixing my paints. Use whatever palette you like.

Mediums:

Matte Medium, Glue Stick

Optional or Other:

Stencils, texture tools, collage papers such as: gelli prints, book papers, copies of pictures; washi tape, acrylic markers, pens, pencils, ephemera, stickers

Additional Notes and Tips:

I like to collect quotes or make a list of words that are meaningful to me, so if you have any favorites, you may want to type them up to use as prompts. I will also bring a couple of books to thumb through for ideas and inspiration.

The instructor will bring the following to use or share:

We will also bring extras of most everything on this list, so if you don't have something, don't go out and buy extras unless you really want to.

Most importantly-come ready to have fun and learn a ton during this Creative Playground-a Palooza!
