

Annie Dotzauer

Artist Bio

With a fine arts degree (BFA), I am a former art teacher and later an administrator (two master's degrees later), I am finally able to do what I love, explore the arts. Now I work every day in my studio with various methods of glass. I have three kilns in my garage to keep our electric bill humming. I have taught various glass techniques for studios in Ohio, Nevada, Florida, and North Carolina. I was even lucky enough to be featured in Glass Art magazine, an international publication. So, as you can see, I am so blessed to be able to create.

After the death of my first husband I would visit my sister every year in Arizona. I would usually take art workshops while visiting her. On one of the visits I was lucky enough to take a class from "Navaho Joe" and learn wire wrapping from this talented American Indian who would only take two students at a time. During this class you will be learning how wire wrap the Navaho way as I will pass on this art of wire wrapping.