

Important Covid-19 Information

Dear Artists, Students and Friends of Village Art Workshops,

We are happy to have reopened Village Art Workshops for classes and workshops; however, our first priority is to keep everyone as healthy and safe as possible.

Be aware our schedule may change. If a class needs to be postponed or cancelled, we will notify the attendees as soon and as quickly as we can.

We don't anticipate needing to reschedule a class, but if we need to reschedule, we can apply your payment to the rescheduled date, a different class, or we will offer you a full refund. This way you can book now without concern.

Due to the Omicron variant and the impending flu season, we are reinstating some of our precautions for attending a class or workshop at Village Art Workshops:

If you are scheduled to attend an event at Village Art Workshops, you must wear a mask while inside. If you do not wear a mask you will not be allowed to stay in the room, and you will not receive a refund. Attendees must wear a surgical style face mask that fits over the nose and mouth. Attendees can wear a face shield in addition to the face mask if they so desire.

If you've been traveling within the last two weeks, are feeling unwell, running a temperature, have been diagnosed with Covid-19 or have been exposed to anyone with Covid-19, you should not attend a class at Village Art Workshops.

We are arranging the tables as far apart as is viable with seating of only one person per table; however, we do ask that you also be aware of your surroundings and try to maintain social distancing as much as possible.

After each class we will clean and sanitize all table and high touch surfaces in preparation for the next event.

We appreciate your continued patronage.

Kindest regards,

Bev Hennessy and Wanda Boyd
