

Mark Nichols

Mark Nichols is originally from Seattle, Washington and now resides in Florida. He is a professional artist who started in theme park scenic arts and has his own business creating children's play areas for waterparks, malls, resorts, etc. BoMar Soft Playgrounds International Inc. is the name of his business, and you can visit the website at bomarsoftplaygrounds.com.

Watercolor painting has always been Mark's obsession during his free time. Mark has been to numerous workshops and has studied under many great watercolor artists including Frank Webb, Judi Wagner, Tony Couch, Tony van Hasselt, Betty Lou Schlemm, Jeanne Dobie, all of whom were disciples of the great watercolor teacher Ed Whitney.

Mark loves the freedom and spontaneity of watercolor, along with the richness of its color and transparency. The quickness of laying down washes and throwing color in is his most exciting aspect of the medium.

Most of his subject matter is landscape expressionism from his experiences throughout Florida and while vacationing in Maine.
